ENGELBERG DIALOGUES 2018

Event Notice

Engelberg, June 19, 2018

“Unlimited Migration?”

Is migration a source of economic prosperity or does it promote ‘social tourism’ and threaten our affluence? From October 14 to 17, 2018, an international audience from business, science, society, and politics will address the variety of perspectives and points of view at the ENGELBERG DIALOGUES. German Professor Christian Dustmann, economist at the University College London, whose research focuses on migration economics, and one of Switzerland’s most prominent economists in this field, Professor George Sheldon, University of Basel, will be among the renowned speakers at the event.

Academia Engelberg Foundation is breaking new ground by dividing the event into three areas. The two-day Autumn Academy for young researchers will be followed by a half-day workshop for invited personalities from science, business, society, and politics. The ideas collected and lessons learned in the context of trans-European migration will be the subject of extensive discussions at the concluding forum on Wednesday, October 17, 2018. The issue will be addressed at a regional level at a public evening event on October 15, 2018, which will complement the debate. The results and insights of the ENGELBERG DIALOGUES are intended to support the ongoing debate on migration in Europe and Switzerland in the long term.
